PREFACE

The Directorate of Archaeology and Museums in Karnataka is perhaps the oldest among the State Departments of Archaeology in the country. It had a humble beginning in 1885. Yet the Directorate did pioneering work in surveying valuable historical and cultural remains, lithic records, copper plates, coins, monuments, ancient sites etc. Later it carried out important excavations. The results of these investigations have thrown fresh light on the history and culture of Karnataka.

Besides the preservation of our cultural heritage, an important function of the Directorate is to publish reports of discoveries and studies pertaining to them. The Directorate has carried out this responsibility with distinction: Epigraphia Carnatica in 12 columes and its supplements, annual reports of the Department, guide books on important historical places, monographs and technical reports on the archaeological excavations carried out by the Directorate have all been published from time to time. And they have been acclaimed by scholars as well as general readers.

It is, therefore, most appropriate that the Directorate of Archaeology and Museums has planned to bring out as part of its Centenary a series of publications on different aspects of archaeology, such as Prehistory, Epigraphy, Numismatics, Architecture, Sculpture, Painting, etc. I am sure the publications will be of use to scholars and common readers alike.

Ramakrishna Hegde

(RAMAKRISHNA HEGDE)

Introduction

The Directorate of Archaeology and Museums (formerly Mysore Archaeological Survey of the old Mysore State), it is too well known, had published 12 volumes of Epigraphia Carnatica during 1886-1905 based on the extensive field survey for the first time covering 8869 inscriptions in the eight districts of the old Mysore State (now the southern part of Karnataka) and Coorg (Kodagu) carried out, and edited by Sri B. Lewis Rice, the first Director of Archaeological Researches. Subsequently R. Narasimhachar, Director of Archaeological Researches, got neatly prepared a general index to these volumes by 1917 with the assistance of his scholarly Assistants. The first part covering the Index from A to K was published in 1934 by Dr. M. H. Krishna, Director of Archaeological Researches under the title: Epigraphia Carnatica Vol. XIII, Part I (Refer to its "Preface"). The manuscript of the Index from L to Z was fortunately preserved in the office. But owing to various reasons, publication of the second part could not be undertaken for a long time. On the occasion of the Centenary celebrations of this Directorate begun in 1985, it was planned to publish 100 books on Archaeology, Epigraphy, Art etc., including the pending and the fresh works marking the Centenary of the Directorate. Already seven Centenary publications have been brought out. Now I am glad to present before scholars and the general public, the second part of the General Index to Epigraphia Carnatica. Incidentally, it may be noted that later, Supplementary Epigraphia Carnatica, volumes XIV to XVIII, were published by this Directorate.

True, meanwhile the scheme of revising and re-editing of the Epigraphia Carnatica volumes first published by this Directorate, was entrusted by the Government of Karnataka to the University of Mysore. The Institute of Kannada studies of the University has published so far, 8 volumes of the revised editions of Epigraphia Carnatica covering the districts and some important places: Kodagu (Coorg)(Vol. I), Sravanabelgola (Vol. II), Mysore (Vols. III, IV, and V), Mandya (VI & VII) and Hasana (Vol. VIII part-I). Thus only a small part of the first edition of the Epigraphia Carnatica volumes, has been revised and published. For, the new editions include inscriptions discovered subsequently and also those that are published in the Annual Mysore Archaeological Reports and volumes of South Indian Inscriptions of the Epigraphy Branch of the Archaeological Survey of India. Thus, the present volumes are enlarged to a considerable extent. In view of the published revised editions and those that are yet to be published, on a rough estimate, the total number of volumes may exceed 30 in number and may therefore take another 20 years at least for their publication. Keeping all these factors in view, it is thought worthwhile to publish the second part of the Index of the first edition of the volumes.

It may be noted here a table synchronising the numbers of the inscriptions of both the first and present editions including those published in the Annual Mysore Archaeological Reports etc., in respect of the districts : Mysore, Mandya and Hasana, is included in this volume. This will enable the reader to locate easily any particular inscription in any of these editions and thus this present Epigraphia Carnatica Volume XIII (Old series) : Part II, is useful for the present edition also. From this table a word from the Index of this volume can be located within the reasonable number of pages of the corresponding new volume. For instance a word from an inscription of the Mysore Taluk from the first edition could be located in volume-5 of the revised edition at pages 33 and 36 and in these pages are given both the old and the new numbers of the inscriptions of the Volumes as well as of the Annual Mysore Archaeological Reports. However, this Index does not cover Epigraphia Carnatica old volumes XIV to XVIII and the inscriptions included in the new editions. It is therefore planned to publish a coordinated complete Index for the entire series after the publication of all the revised volumes of Epigraphia Carnatica which will take quite a long time. The present index therefore serves the purpose to a limited extent. I hope scholars and readers will welcome this much needed volume and make valuable and useful suggestions for preparing a revised, enlarged and complete Index by this Directorate in future.

First of all it is my bounden duty to remember gratefully the old stalwarts of the Directorate, R. Narasimhachar who directed the preparation of the Index and the scholars who carried out the painstaking job in a systematic, clean and beautiful way. Now while preparing the press copy Smt. Gowramma, Sri. S. G. Samak, Sri. B. S. Aparanji, Sri. S. B. Ramesh and Sri. Bhatsoori, Epigraphist, had verified the manuscript with the originals, Smt. Vishalakshi commenced the typing of the manuscript in the mid-seventies and had typed the letters L to O, but unfortunately died in August 1984. Most part of the bulky manuscript was typed by Smt. M. Chandramma, Smt. K. R. Shobha and the rest by Sri. H. N. Anantharamu. Sri. Rohidekar, Sri. M. Parameshwara Kumar had checked the proofs to a large extent and Sri. H. M. Nagaraja Rao, Sri. T. S. Gangadhara, the remaining part. M/s Jayalakshmi Printers, Mysore have neatly printed the volume with care. I sincerely express my thanks to everyone ; the past scholars, my present colleagues of the Directorate, my friends and the printers for the excellent job they have done.
